Dear friend,

I wonder if you've ever noticed that there are certain words we say a lot at church but nowhere else. You probably don't talk about a "sanctuary" at school or "communion" when you're playing soccer. I bet you can think of other examples too.

"Stewardship" is another one of those words. One way to define stewardship would be to say "being responsible with what we have." In the Bible, God tells people that they are to practice good stewardship with all of creation, meaning that it's our responsibility to notice what God has given us and using it well. We practice good stewardship by sharing what we have and noticing when there are ways we can help other people.

This year, we're asking you (yes, you!) to practice good stewardship by considering how you might share your talents and your money with our church. Maybe you're a really good musician, and you could be part of choir or handbells. Maybe God has given you a loud and clear voice, and you can serve as a liturgist in worship. Maybe you ask really good questions, and you can commit to coming to Sunday School or being part of a youth small group.

TREASURER

Aubrey Moore

We're also asking you to share some of your money with the church. We ask all members of the church to share what they have, so we can make sure that we have a beautiful space for worship on Sunday mornings, a fun playground, and a comfortable building to be together as a family of faith.

The Time, Talent, and Treasure form in this envelope will help you think about what you can share with the church, and we'd encourage you to talk about this with your parents too. On Sunday, November 13, everyone will have a chance to bring their Time, Talent, and Treasure forms to worship and to make their commitments as good stewards at Covenant.

We're so glad that you're part of our church, and we're excited to see what God will do through you and your gifts!

Grace and peace,

Pastor Katelyn
